More about our Speakers

Berniece Hieckmann (Metropolitan)

"RADD delivery for a new 21st century context."

Berniece worked in the financial sector for more than 20 years and has both banking and insurance experience. Key strategic focus areas in her career have been bancassurance and entry level market strategies. She has held positions in sales, business design, IT, finance, marketing and product development and this is mirrored in her studies which span law, finance, tax and more recently, anthropology. Her current focus is on evolving financial services from a 20th century mindset into leveraging the digital opportunities and pace of change of the 21st century. She is currently responsible for the delivery division within Metropolitan Retail, a business within the MMI Group, with accountability for strategy, business design, IT delivery culminating in client and channel value propositions.

Licia Dewing (Career Strategist)

"Disrupt yourself and have the career you want in 2020."

Licia is a guest lecturer at the Vega School of Brand Leadership, keynotes at Graduate Business Schools, has been asked to speak twice at Leaderex – Africa's largest gathering of professionals and entrepreneurs and is a regular talking all things careers and futurism on the FUTURE Ceo's podcast on CliffCentral. In 2012 Licia left a successful corporate career to get back to her passion and find more purpose in her work - she wanted to step out of the shadows and stand in the sunshine of her career. Out of necessity she developed The Career Strategy Formula and now falls in love with her work every day by helping clients to have the careers they want by following a detailed 12-week career strategy action plan. She works with established and emerging leaders across the globe and her goal is to get more people into the sunshine of their careers.

Candice Watson (British American Tobacco Southern Africa)

"Understanding the underrepresentation of women in senior management in Africa."

Candice started her human resources career in the graduate development programme at the South African Breweries Soft Drinks Division. She moved onto Standard Bank as a human resources generalist before making rapid progress in senior executive roles at various leading firms. In the two years as director of human resources with BATSA she has successfully had the company certified as a top employer in South Africa and the continent. Candice holds a bachelor and honours in psychology and a post graduate diploma and master's degree in business administration. She is currently enrolled for her doctorate in business administration pursuing her research interests in women in management. She specialises in operationalising strategy, presenting, facilitation, mentoring and coaching, as well as leadership development, change management, employee relations and human resources analytics and insight.
